

ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatus are disclosed for classifying a search by keyword. A web-accessible database containing content searchable by a networked user is provided that associates keywords sponsored by an advertiser with content. A user may search the database by keyword, thereby producing a set of hypertext documents. A subset of the hypertext documents containing sponsored keywords are classified into categories corresponding to the keyword used by the user.